Expect Communist China To Reveal U. N. Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China was expected to spell out in a major policy speech today what role it will play in future U.N. disarmament talks.

Ambassador Huang Hua, China's permanent U.N. delegate, was scheduled to address the 131-nation General Assembly as it approached the end of its debate on a Soviet proposal for a world conference on disarmament to supplement the work of the 26-nation Disarmament Committee meeting in Geneva.

U.N. diplomats anticipated that Huang would give Peking's views on the whole approach to disarmament rather than limiting his statement to the Soviet proposal. Answers to these questions were expected.

—Would Peking attend a world disarmament conference if one were called?

—Would it insist on its previous position that such a conference must be at the summit level?

—Would it accept the Soviet proposal that the conference be held outside the framework of the United Nations or would it go along with the majority which wants the conference under U.N. auspices?

—Would it announce it is joining the Geneva Disarmament Committee, the principal vehicle for arms negotiations for the past decade? Or would it, like France, boycott the committee?

The Chinese already have rejected a Soviet proposal for private summit talks among the nuclear powers and have spoken out strongly against deals made privately by the Russians and the Americans.

Some diplomats close to the Chinese believe their aversion to the superpowers would rule out their participation in the Geneva talks as they are presently organized. The participating countries were selected by the United States and the Soviet Union and affirmed by the General Assembly. The United States and the Soviet Union alternate as chairman.

Some delegates during the current debate have suggested that consultations must be begun to find a way to bring Peking into the disarmament discussions. At the same time, most have urged an early resumption of the Geneva talks, apparently hoping that the Chinese would take part.

Several resolutions are now pending in the assembly urging that France and China join in the partial nuclear test ban accepted by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union in 1963. The resolutions also call for an end to all testing without referring specifically to the recent Chinese test in the atmosphere or to the U.S. underground test in the Aleutian Islands.

Mideast Peace Plan Is Seen as Answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American pursuit of an interim settlement between Israel and Egypt may be paralyzed for the time being but administration and diplomatic sources indicate the concept is still the key to U.S. policy in the Mideast.

There are no reasonable alternatives, these sources say, although they acknowledge the American effort may have to undergo some changes, dropping some, if not all, the six ideas Secretary of State William P. Rogers previously indicated were areas of negotiation.

For the moment, the entire initiative to negotiate a reopened Suez Canal as a first step is on the shelf, by State Department admission, because of opposition from both sides in the Mideast dispute. And the focus of the conflict is shifting to the United Nations.

Neither the United States nor Israel expects the U.N. General Assembly debate, which opens early next month, to provide any solution. Israel objects to past U.N. actions in the Mideast and, as one diplomatic source maintained, the debate will be "a hullabaloo in a glass house that never has and never will lead to anything worthwhile."

The American doubts revolve around the theory that private, quiet diplomacy is the best bet to reach any accord.

There are other possible alternatives, but the sources rule them out as either unacceptable to one side or the other as well as the United States, or because they are too indefinite.

One of the possibilities is the U.N.-sponsored effort by Sweden's Gunnar Jarring to negotiate a total settlement. The Egyptians have accepted Jarring's mission, and the United States has carefully kept the door open to his effort as a possible next step after an interim agreement.

But Israel has objected to Jarring's role personally as well as to the specifics of his efforts. There is no indication Jerusalem will back off.

A big-power-engineered accommodation is another alternative, but Washington has expressed no interest in this because of the possible dilution of American influence in the Mideast.

One possibility that no party has yet rejected is a current fact-finding trip being taken by the presidents of four Black African nations. Israel and Egypt have welcomed the Africans but nothing specific has been proposed.

When the U.N. debate ends, U.S. sources say, they expect both sides to step back and recognize there will be only one choice to war—the American initiative.

Say A & P Is Closing In Sedalia

Following 41 years of operation in Sedalia, the A & P Grocery Co., 1305 South Limit, will close its doors with the expiration of its lease in February, 1972.

Mrs. Roy Brown, 907 West Fourth, who is co-owner of the property with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilcox, Kansas City, said the grocery firm had notified her last July of its intention to terminate the lease.

H. B. Conner, personnel director for the Kansas City offices of A & P, said there had been no formal announcement on the company's decision, but there would be before the store closed.

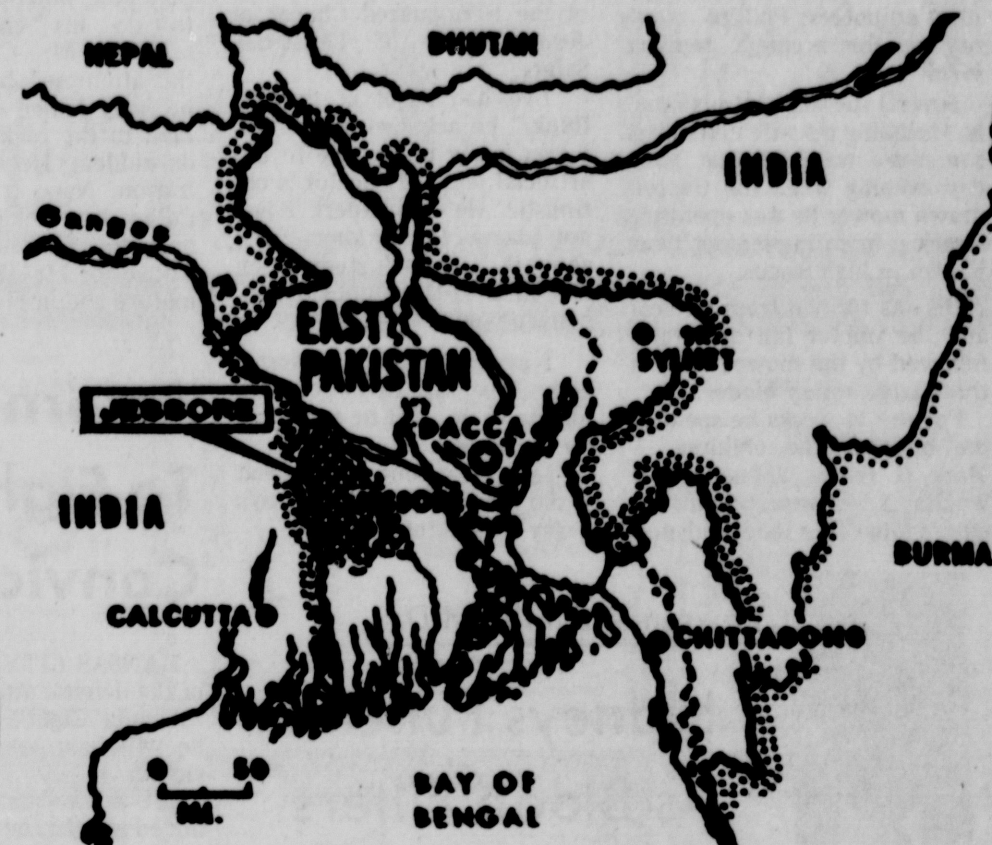

Conner said he was unable to give the reasons for the store's leaving Sedalia. Even though he would not confirm or deny rumors that the company was losing money on its Sedalia operation, this may be a major factor in the decision, one source said.

Asked if the grocery chain had plans to put in a new store at another location in Sedalia, Conner said that the company had no such plans for the foreseeable future.

A & P first came to Sedalia during the Depression, setting up operation at 508-510 South Ohio in 1930. During the 1950's and 1960's, as newer and bigger supermarkets came to the community, the store decided to move to a more modern facility.

In February, 1962, the grocery store moved to its present site.

Mrs. Brown said she had no plans at present on how the property would be used once the grocery firm leaves. She said, however, there was a possibility the land might be sold after February.

Fighting Reported

India restricted fights near her borders Tuesday with Pakistan after a shooting incident in the skies along the East Pakistan frontier and what was characterized by a government spokesman as an increase in border incidents on the ground. Today India claimed the right to attack across the border in self-defense. (UPI)

India Backs Attack Into East Pakistan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

India said today its troops have orders permitting them to attack across the border into Pakistan at any time and any place in self-defense, and that they have already done so on at least one occasion.

A government spokesman, elaborating on a Parliament speech by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, said local commanders at all levels were authorized to cross—even a private could go "if he is shot at from across the border."

India previously has denied its troops had or would cross the border under any circumstances, despite Pakistani allegations of large-scale attacks by Indian army units along the borders with the rebel province of East Pakistan.

India insists the attacks were launched by East Pakistani independence fighters, the Mukti Bahini. Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament the rebels have seized large sections of East Pakistan and inflicted heavy casualties on the Pakistani army.

Dispatches from Pakistan apparently were being delayed, but Radio Pakistan reported all Pakistani reserve officers and officers on leave before retirement were being ordered to report for duty immediately.

India partly mobilized its reserves last month.

Mrs. Gandhi told the Indian Parliament that no Indian troops were fighting inside East Pakistan, but she did acknowledge that Indian troops entered the province after a tank battle near the border on Sunday.

She said Pakistani infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, launched an offensive on the Mukti Bahini—the East Pakistan Liberation Army—who she said had liberated an area around Boyra, five miles from India's border.

"Pakistani armor, under heavy artillery cover, advanced to our border threatening our defensive positions," she said.

"Their shells fell in our territory, wounding a number of our men."

"The local Indian military commander took appropriate action to repulse the Pakistani attack. In this action 13 Pakistani Chaffee tanks were destroyed."

The Boyra area, about 45 miles northeast of Calcutta, borders the Jessore district of East Pakistan, where the Pakistan government announced on Monday that 130 Indians were killed and an estimated 500 wounded in fighting that involved tanks.

Boyra is also across the border from the area where India claims it shot down three Pakistani F86 Sabre Jets on Monday. Pakistan said it lost two Sabres but insisted the battle with Indian Gnat fighters took place over East Pakistan, not over India as claimed by New Delhi.

The Pakistanis claimed two Indian jets downed. Mrs. Gandhi called the air battle a "purely local action."

McCracken Gives His Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today the resignation of Dr. Paul W. McCracken as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and his replacement by the vice chairman, Dr. Herbert Stein.

The change gives President Nixon an activist economist who had a large part in developing the wage-price freeze and the Phase 2 machinery which succeeded it on Nov. 14. The change is unlikely, however, to bring any substantial shift in economic policy.

The resignation of McCracken takes effect Jan. 1, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. It had been postponed since September because of the launching of Nixon's new economic policy on Aug. 15.

Spainhower in Treasurer's Race

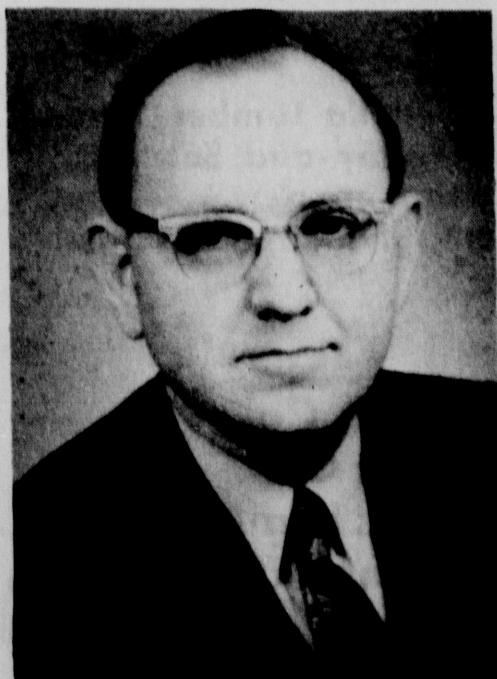

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former State Rep. James I. Spainhower filed today for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer and said if elected he would conduct the office in a way "to give the people cause for confidence in state government."

Spainhower, 43, served in the House from Saline County from 1963 to 1970 and now is president of the Associated Medical Schools of Missouri. He also teaches political science at Lincoln University.

He is an ordained minister of the Christian Church and formerly was pastor at Marshall, Mendon and Bosworth.

In the House Spainhower was chairman of the education committee four years, served six years on the appropriations committee and was chairman of a statewide school district reorganization commission. He has won numerous awards for his civic service.

He is chairman of the legislative affairs division for the Missouri Council of

James Spainhower

Churches. He holds master's and doctor's degrees in political science from the University of Missouri and a bachelor of divinity degree from Lexington, Ky., Theological Seminary. He also has an honorary doctor of laws degree from Phillips University.

He and his wife now live in Jefferson City and are the parents of two children, Janet, 12, and Jeff, 10.

Spainhower's filing came a few minutes before Judge Harry Wiggins of the Jackson County Court, former state liquor control supervisor, withdrew from the race. He said he didn't have the time or the money to make a statewide campaign.

Also in the race are Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, House Appropriations chairman; former Jackson County Judge Hunter Phillips, former state tax commission chairman; L. E. Morris, a retired Army officer from Jefferson City who is a perennial candidate for high state office, and Don Carpenter of St. Louis.

Thankful For Response

A $1.80 classified ad was responsible for replacing a lost wallet containing $23 of a young Sedalian's Christmas shopping money recently, besides renewing the faith the boy's parents have in today's younger generation.

Doug Koetting, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Koetting, 421 West Broadway, went shopping Friday with his three brothers, hoping to solve his Christmas shopping chores with $23 he had saved from his newspaper route.

During the trip downtown, Doug lost the billfold, which did not contain any identification. Retracing his steps twice, and failing to find the wallet, he left his name with several downtown merchants in case the money was turned in.

After hearing no word Saturday or Sunday, Mrs. Koetting decided to place an ad in The Democrat-Capital lost and found classified section Monday as a last resort.

Results were prompt when April Oswald, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Oswald, 1644 South Sneed, who had found the wallet Saturday in front of Mattingly's, 218 South Ohio, phoned the Koetting home to tell Doug the wallet had been recovered.

For her effort April, a Smith-Cotton sophomore, received a $5 reward and Doug will be able to do his Christmas shopping after all.

$2.7 Billion

Trim Defense Bill Below Nixon Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blocking moves to bring 60,000 U.S. troops home from Europe and to hold a $4-billion spending line on military intelligence, the Senate has passed a defense bill trimmed below presidential requests.

But the net dollar effect of Tuesday's voting was to restore about three-quarters of the $800 million cut from the bill by the Senate Appropriations Committee, bringing the total new spending authority for the Pentagon to $70.8 billion. The total is $2.7 billion below the administration's request.

The 80-5 vote by which the measure finally has passed and sent to conference with the House did not reflect the heated floor debates over U.S. European troop deployment and intelligence spending secrecy.

The Senate did avoid a potentially bruising debate when an expected move to bring another Vietnam withdrawal move to a vote failed to materialize.

Only once in a long series of votes on amendments did the Senate choose to go against the express wishes of the President, administration officials and military leaders.

Then, on an 82-14 roll call, it added to the bill an amendment by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., earmarking $500 million in credit to help Israel buy Phantom jets and other arms.

The Senate later voted, 54 to 39, to remove from the bill a proposal drafted by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield which would have placed a 250,000 ceiling on the number of troops stationed permanently in Europe and brought about 60,000 men home.

That vote came after an appeal from Nixon who said a unilateral cut would, "with one stroke, diminish Western military capability in Europe and signal to friend and adversary alike a disarray and weakness of purpose in the American government."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who said the American economy can no longer stand the financial strains it has been bearing abroad since the end of World War II, pleaded the case for increased domestic spending and said:

"There are those in this body who can hear the furthest drum before they can hear the cry of a single hungry child."

Symington and Sen. J.W. Fulbright triggered another stormy debate in trying to convince the Senate to clamp a $4-billion spending limit on the nation's intelligence activities.

They lost by a 56-31 vote.

Symington contended the veil of secrecy is so heavy that even senators often don't know of such major undertakings as American-financed combat in Laos. The result of the vote was to leave intelligence hidden in the defense budget.

Independence Family Faces Bleak Holiday

By CHET CURRIER
Associated Press Writer
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Robert L. Phillips and his family will most likely be observing Thanksgiving without the traditional turkey and trimmings this year.

For one thing, Jeannie Phillips is expecting their fifth child any time, and chances are good she will spend the holiday in a maternity ward.

Whether that happens or not, there isn't enough money for much of a family feast. The Phillipses have had no income since Aug. 2, when a devastating farm accident cost Phillips both his legs, crushed one of his arms and severely damaged the other. And he had no medical insurance.

Yet Phillips, 39, still confined to bed in the living room of his family's newly rented home here, says he's looking forward to "the greatest Thanksgiving I have ever had."

With the hours of enforced idleness and the so-called "phantom pains" that plague most amputees, Phillips' memory of the accident remains vivid.

Several members of his family, including his wife and oldest son, were watching that Monday evening when the tractor-drawn mower he was operating struck a farm implement lying hidden in high weeds.

He was thrown from his seat and the tractor ran over him, followed by the mower with its three large rotary blades.

For the 11 weeks he spent in the hospital, the children — Mark, 11, Bobby, 9, Lori, 8, and Wakita, 2 — were put in the care of four other Independence families and Jeannie virtually moved into her husband's room.

"I've got very much to be thankful for," Phillips says. "The family's back together. And I'm very grateful to the people who have helped financially, as well as spiritually with their prayers."

Most of the financial help — amounting to some $18,000 as of the middle of this month — has come through a special fund set up by the Noland Road Bank of Independence. It's an impressive total but, Phillips concedes, by no means a surplus.

"I'm just hopeful we can make it to next spring, when the Social Security and veterans' benefits will start," he says.

Phillips, before the accident an active man who boxed in Golden Gloves tournaments and served in the Marine Corps in Korea, says he has filled some of his time since with music and sermons from a tape recorder near his bed, and extensive reading on the history of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"I've had a lot of time to think," he acknowledges. "Am I ever going to be able to use artificial legs? My doctor is optimistic. He's an expert. I just don't know. I don't know much about it. You don't study up on that kind of thing until it happens to you."

"I owe quite a bit to somebody. I feel that God's got work for me to do, that he saved me for a purpose."

"I've got a long road ahead of me," he adds. "But if there's a way of walking, I'll walk."

Testimony Coverup Charged

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Republican State Chairman J. Nick Gray Tuesday labeled a "political coverup" C.W. Culley's refusal to testify in the attempted bribery trial of Rudolph "Doc Z" Zatezalo.

Zatezalo, a Democratic Party fund raiser, was accused of offering Culley, then state finance commissioner, $8,000 to delay closing of the Bank of Bonne Terre. Culley closed it a little later because of alleged bad loans.

The trial was postponed indefinitely last week after Culley's doctor said Culley could not stand the strain of testifying or even of giving a deposition.

"Mr. Culley's excuse of ill health no longer seems to bear close scrutiny," Gray said in a statement here. "It is now more than 11 months since his heart surgery and he appears to be leading a normal life. He says he is able to hunt, fish and play golf, but that he is too ill to do his civic duty."

"When Mr. Culley reported the attempted bribe last year, he was hailed as an honest man in the midst of the scandal-ridden Hearnes administration. Now, it appears, Mr. Culley has yielded to political pressure; that last year's applause for Mr. Culley was premature and unjustified."

Attorney To Fight Conviction

KANSAS CITY (AP) — One of the defense attorneys for the "Wichita Eight" said Tuesday he will fight the group's conviction to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary, but questioned whether he would continue to represent Samuel Jarvis Hunt of Topeka.

Chester I. Lewis of Wichita said he will file a petition this week for another hearing for the defendants, whose 1969 convictions were upheld earlier this month by the Kansas Supreme Court.

Hunt and three of the other defendants reportedly fled the country earlier this year and are now living in Tanzania, Africa. They were free on bond.

Lewis and co-counsel Charles Scott filed suit charging Lewis and co-counsel Charles Scott filed suit charging Hunt had left with $19,500 contributed for the defense of the group.

The two attorneys are seeking $10,000 in unpaid legal fees.

Monday, Ron Daniels, general co-ordinator of the Midwest Regional Council of Youngstown, Ohio, said about $16,000 of the $19,500 had been spent on coalition activities and the remainder was recovered before Hunt is understood to have left the country.

"We knew he (Hunt) had some money," Lewis said. "We knew he owed us and promised to pay us. Where he got it is not our concern. I assume that what he (Daniels) said is accurate."

Department Stands By Early '71 Predictions

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is holding to earlier predictions 1971 net farm income will be "close" to last year and that farmers can expect a rosier 1972.

The appraisal was included Monday in a report by the Economic Research Service on the "demand and price situation" for agricultural products.

During the third quarter, the report said, net farm income was at an annual rate of $16.3 billion, compared with $14.8 billion during April-June and $14.6 billion last January-March.

"But because of smaller returns earlier this year," the ERS said, "net farm income for calendar 1971 may approximate the $15.7 billion earned in 1970."

Insurance Explained At Session

Samuel C. Boardman, insurance consultant for the American Association of Retired Persons, discussed several health and hospitalization plans available to members at a meeting of the Sedalia Chapter of the AARP held Monday afternoon at Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Boardman spoke mainly of four basic insurance plans, two covering hospitalization, one for nursing home and nursing care in the home and a fourth involving general coverage of costs accruing from medical treatment or prescription drug purchases.

Boardman stressed that eligibility for the insurance programs is restricted to AARP members, but noted applications for insurance and membership could be made at the same time.

Among other services in addition to health insurance, AARP provides life and auto insurance and also maintains a pharmacy-by-mail service in Kansas City offering patent medicines as well as prescription drugs at a savings.

All of the insurance plans were designed to complement Medicare for those AARP members eligible for that government service, and none of the programs require previous medical history information, Boardman said.

The plans cover all types of medical help including treatment, many insurance policies do not. Only optometrist and dentist bills are not covered, he added.

Miss Opal O'Brian, program chairman, introduced the Chicago insurance expert.

The Rev. Garner Odell, local chapter president, announced his resignation as local AARP representative on the Pettis County Council on Aging. Wilfred Lee, 314 South Kentucky, will fill that position in the future, it was decided.

Price gains are expected to continue "well into 1972" for meat animals, dairy products, poultry and eggs, the report said.

"Record crops and greater livestock output, coupled with firm demand, are brightening the agricultural picture a little. With weather conditions good and little damage of corn blight, this year's crops are record large. Bumper crops are bringing increased crop marketings and lower feed prices," the report said.

"Prospects are for better farm receipts and net income for next year," the ERS said.

"Grain prices are under pressure but larger feeding rates (more grain fed to animals), increased marketings, heavier price support loan activity, and the recently announced 1972 feed grain program may help ease this impact of over-abundant crop supplies," the report said.

Further, the ERS said, farmers can look forward to a slower rise in expenses.

There was no prediction on 1972 net farm income, however.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices paid dairymen for Class I milk used for bottling average $7.4 per hundredweight this month, unchanged from early October but nine cents more than in October last year, says the Agriculture Department.

Store prices charged consumers in major cities averaged 57.8 cents per half gallon, down one-tenth of a cent from October but one-tenth of a cent more than a year earlier.

Prices of home-delivered milk averaged 67.5 cents, unchanged from October but 2.3 cents more than a year ago, the USDA said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has tentatively estimated the nation's inventory of all cattle and calves at record high, possibly as many as 118 million head.

That would mean a gain of three million head or more from the 114.6 million estimated on farms as of Jan. 1 this year. In each of the previous two years, the gain was about 2.25 million head.

It also would be the largest boost since the early 1960s. In 1963 the inventory was put at nearly 104.5 million head, compared with fewer than 100.4 million on Jan. 1, 1962.

Officials said in a "livestock and meat situation" report the larger inventory reflects a calf crop this year 2.5 per cent larger than in 1970.

Senate Rejects Symington Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday rejected 56-31 an amendment by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to put a $4 billion ceiling on U.S. intelligence spending.

Democrats voting for the amendment: Symington and Eagleton, Mo.; Harris, Okla., and Hughes, Iowa.

Republicans voting against: Bellmon, Okla.; Curtis and Hruska, Neb.; Dole and Pearson, Kan., and Miller, Iowa.

Wife Realized That Love Isn't All Mush

Dear Post: Thank you for sharing. I hope the wives out there who are flunking the course will take notice.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 14. My father owns a successful business which he started before I was born. My mother helps him weekends.

For the last four years, since I was 11, I have had to spend every summer and every holiday working in the office for my dad. I've never received a paycheck because "I am a member of the family." I am not lazy and I am not trying to goof off, but I would dearly love to get a paying job next summer. My father says, "You'll work for me until you go to college."

Is this fair? I have respect for your opinion, and so do my parents. Please settle this. — Massachusetts Mickey Mouse.

Dear M.M.M.: A 15-year-old, which is what you will be next summer, is no little kid. I assume you keep regular working hours and do a good job. In my opinion, you should be paid for that time. Suggest to your dad that he bank 75 per cent of the paycheck in your name. The remaining 25 per cent should go to you to spend as you please.

Dear Ann Landers: My next door neighbor is a young mother, as I am, and she has asked me for advice. I told her I was not Ann Landers, but I'd try. Now I find myself writing to you — which is what SHE should have done.

Her three-year-old son will not eat. The reason she asked me for advice is because I have no feeding problem with my two kids (ages 4 and 2). She wants to know why. She pulls her hair out of her head and her son is practically starving himself. I pay no attention to my kids' eating habits and I have no problem whatever. My kids would eat a horsehoe dipped in chocolate if I gave it to them. What should I tell her? I don't know the answer. — Relaxed Ma In Sherman, Texas.

Dear Sherm: The answer is in your letter. Your neighbor is pulling the hair out of her head and you are "Relaxed In Sherman."

If she'd stop making a federal case out of what her son eats and what he doesn't eat, he'd eat better. The plate can be the battlefield on which Ma and offspring fight their most devastating wars. Finicky eaters usually get that way because it's a good mechanism for getting attention. Funny how a three-year-old can outsmart his mother.

Kidneys Function As Blood Filters

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — During my last physical exam, my doctor found my urea nitrogen to be double the normal.

I had my kidneys X rayed and also had dye injected into my blood and this was also X rayed as it passed through my body.

My doctor says everything was O.K. He didn't explain to me what urea nitrogen was. I'm worried about this and wondered if I'm going to have trouble in the future. I understand this is a kidney malfunction. Please help.

Dear Reader — First, quit worrying. Urea is the chemical compound left over after protein is metabolized. Individuals who eat a lot of meat or other foods high in protein form more urea than individuals eating a lower protein diet. Within broad ranges, urea is not harmful to the body.

The urea formed by the body is excreted in the urine. In this way, the kidney filters off the excess amounts.

Since urea contains nitrogen, the laboratory test to measure the amount of urea in the blood is done by measuring the nitrogen in the urea — hence, the term "urea nitrogen." If there is an increased amount of urea in the blood, left over from protein metabolism, the urea nitrogen measurement is increased.

Now, if the kidneys are damaged and not functioning properly, they don't filter the blood adequately and excess urea accumulates in the blood. This possibility is why your doctor examined your kidneys so carefully. And, happily, he found out your kidneys work fine.

To filter the blood of urea efficiently, the kidney must be able to flush out a considerable amount of water, which is the amount of urine formed each day. If a person is not passing much urine, the urea can also build up in the bloodstream.

A common cause for increased amounts of urea nitrogen in healthy people is a diet rich in protein, the meat eaters are usually the ones, with a low intake of fluids or water. This is particularly true if the person works in the hot sun and loses a lot of water in sweat rather than through the formation of urine. A lot of blood tests are also done after a night of fasting, which adds to the likelihood of high urea nitrogen values. I saw a lot of these in young, healthy pilots that merely reflected the eating, drinking and exercise habits of these men. The elevation in urea nitrogen within broad limits in such cases is entirely normal.

Your doctor was wise to test you carefully to rule out any important cause. He has done that and now you can relax. I might suggest, though, that you improve your water drinking habits, especially before your next examination.

Tax Cut Measure Provision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are major provisions of the $27-billion tax-cut bill passed by the Senate Monday night:

INDIVIDUAL TAXES
—Increases personal exemption this year from $650 to $675, and to $800 in 1972.

—Increases minimum standard deduction this year from $1,050 to $1,300.

No Connection Is Seen In Incidents

A story in Tuesday's Sedalia Democrat about a man who allegedly supplied a minor with intoxicating beverages left the implication that the incident occurred on the same day the minor, a girl, was attacked by an unknown assailant.

Dennis Wayne Carson, 26, 2107 South Harrison, Tuesday was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor identified as Miss Linda Wasson, 18, 906 East Fourth. The incident allegedly took place last Thursday.

Miss Wasson was struck in the face late Saturday night by an unidentified woman and hospitalized. She is reported in good condition.

Carson's Magistrate Court hearing has been set for Dec. 7.

Offensive Continues To Advance

TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces advanced up the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway today and broadened a parallel offensive in Cambodia 60 miles to the northeast.

More than 20,000 Saigon troops are involved in the two operations, supported by South Vietnamese and American aircraft. None of the troops have encountered significant enemy resistance so far.

In the northern drive along Highway 7, more than 10,000 infantrymen, paratroopers, rangers and armored vehicles pushed eastward from Krok toward the rubber plantation towns of Mimot and Snuol.

More thousands of troops pushed northwest of Krok toward the Chup rubber plantation. Associated Press Correspondent J. T. Wolkertorfer reported that South Vietnamese helicopters landed one battalion of paratroopers in the area of Chum, 20 miles from Chup. The paratroopers began setting up a base, apparently in preparation for an advance on Suong, on the edge of the plantation.

Hard fighting was anticipated at Chup, Mimot and Snuol.

The southern advance up Highway 1, the main road between Saigon and Phnom Penh, took 1,500 South Vietnamese infantrymen through the Parrot's Beak sector of Cambodia in the vicinity of Svay Rieng. It began today, the third day of the Highway 7 operation.

It was not known yet how far the South Vietnamese planned to advance along Highway 1, although some informants said their objective was Neak Luong. It is a major Mekong River crossing point 35 miles from Phnom Penh.

Wolkertorfer reported that U.S. helicopters also landed small reconnaissance units in jungled border regions 15 miles west of Tay Ninh. He said this could be the forerunner of a third cross-border probe 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Chup plantation is believed to house the rear headquarters of North Vietnam's 9th Division. Fifteen miles to the west, in a jungle region known as Dam Be, are the headquarters and supply depots of Hanoi's 7th Division.

A third North Vietnamese division, the 5th, is headquartered at Snuol. Five hundred South Vietnamese were killed or wounded when they were rushed out of that town last May.

ASCS Ballots Distributed; Deadline Set

Pettis County ballots for community committeemen on the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee are due Dec. 1, according to ASC committee chairman Samuel Hieronymus.

Ballots, which were mailed Nov. 18, will be tabulated at the county ASC office at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 7, according to Hieronymus.

Not more than three candidates may be selected on each ballot, Hieronymus explained. Three community committeemen and two alternates will be elected in each of the ASC communities in the county, he added. The candidate with the most votes becomes chairman, Hieronymus said, with the second highest vote-getter designated vice-chairman, third-high, regular member and fourth and fifth place finishers selected as alternates. Terms of all officers last for one year beginning Jan. 1, he added.

Duties of community committeemen, Hieronymus said, include keeping farmers informed on the programs and efforts of the County ASC office, and how those programs will affect individual farming operations. He said that major ASC programs in Pettis County are Rural Environmental Assistance, Wheat and Feed Grains, and Commodity and Facility Loans.

Hieronymus said anyone who believed he was an eligible voter but had not received a ballot shortly after Nov. 19, should inquire at the ASC office, 319 South Lamine.

Hearnes Will Seek An Audit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he will seek an outside evaluation of the auditing quarrel between State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond and State Revenue Director James E. Schaffner.

Bond had issued an audit critical of Schaffner's operations of the revenue department's data processing section. Schaffner had responded with an item by item rebuttal of Bond's criticisms.

Then, Nov. 18, Schaffner asked the Democratic governor, the man who appointed him director of revenue, to get an outside appraisal of the two sides.

In a letter dated today, directed to Schaffner but with a copy for Bond, Hearnes said Schaffner's "response directly challenges the integrity of his (Bond's) report on the accounts and management control systems of the data processing unit of the Department of Revenue."

"If your response is correct, then the auditor's report contained unfair criticism of your agency."

"If, on the other hand, your charges are incorrect, then you have unfairly cast doubt upon the report in question as well as other audits produced by Mr. Bond's office."

"The present situation, involving contradictory documents, is not fair to either the auditor's office or the Department of Revenue."

For that reason, Hearnes said, he will call upon "experts in the accounting field who have no connection with any of the parties involved" to make an evaluation of the conflicting positions.

Conviction, Parole Top Court Action

Stephen Allen Steele, St. Charles, was sentenced to two years in custody of the State Department of Correction in Pettis County Circuit Court Tuesday by Judge Frank Conley of Columbia.

Conley heard the case at Steele's request for a temporary transfer of judges in the local Court.

He was charged with possessing more than 35 grams of marijuana, a controlled substance. When he was arrested on July 11 he allegedly had 25,878 grams of marijuana in his possession.

Judge Conley ordered that Steele be given credit for the 105 days he had spent in Pettis County jail.

In other Circuit Court action, Clifton E. Scott, a former Boonville police officer, was placed on probation after he was sentenced to five years in custody of the State Department of Correction by Judge Conley.

The case was heard here on a change of venue from Cooper County.

Scott was charged with stealing in connection with the Dec. 8, 1970, theft of merchandise valued at $1,900 from a clothing store.

According to information filed by Cooper County authorities, Scott was a police officer at the time.

Hearing Date Is Set in Forgery Case in Sedalia

A Dec. 7 preliminary hearing and a $3,500 bond were set for Billy Gene Wahlers, Lake Ozark, Mo., in Pettis County Magistrate Court Wednesday. He is charged with issuing a $220.80 forged check at the Kroger Family Center April 3.

Wahlers was returned to the Pettis County jail Monday after he was released on bond in connection with a previous forgery charge. That charge stems from a March 3 incident in which Wahlers is alleged to have cashed a $201.40 Social Security check belonging to Lawrence P. Klein of Smithton.

In connection with the first case, Wahlers is to be remanded to Magistrate Court from the Circuit Court for a preliminary hearing. The court appointed Andrew Webb as his attorney.

Suggests Archives Building

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick suggested to the Senate Appropriations Committee today the state should build its own fire and stormproof building for the Archives and Record Center.

He said the building now being rented in Jefferson City leads during heavy rainstorms and his staff sometimes has to use tarpaulins to prevent damage to records.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, asked if the owner of the building had been notified and he was told the secretary of state's staff merely sent a letter to the Division of Planning and Construction about a month ago. Nothing has been done so far, Jones was told.

He suggested that a member of Kirkpatrick's staff walk the few feet from Kirkpatrick's office to the Division of Planning and Construction and tell Director John C. Paulus the Senate Appropriations Committee demanded immediate action from the building owner.

Kirkpatrick asked for an appropriation of $901,271 for the coming fiscal year, about $47,000 less than the current year, partly because there will be no state manual published next year. The manual is published every two years.

The Division of Health asked for $7,193,395, of which $3,869,658 would be from state funds, $3,218,737 from federal funds and the rest from fees.

Dr. Herbert Domke, health director, said the only new program was for drug control, under a law enacted by last spring's legislature. For that he asked money to employ nine persons.

Asked whether he favored legislation to establish a state fire marshal's office, Domke said his division was emphatically in favor of it.

William Culver, director of the Law Enforcement Assistance Council, told the appropriations committee Tuesday a state fund of $894,858 would generate nearly $24 million in federal funds for improving law enforcement, the court system and the correctional program.

He said the money could be used to improve the training of law enforcement officers and might help in the effort to get fulltime prosecuting attorneys and public defenders if the legislature enacts the necessary laws.

He said some of the funds also could be used to broaden the probation and parole system, improve rehabilitation programs, provide halfway houses for prisoners about to be released and foster homes for juveniles.

Judge Robert Donnelly of the Missouri Supreme Court said the court does not yet know how its workload will be affected by phasing out commissioners and adding judges to the St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield courts of appeals.

As of now, he said, the court has a backlog of more than 200 cases "and it will be at least three or four years before we can catch up."

GM Seeks Okay From Commission

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Motors Corp. has asked the Price Commission to approve a 2.5 per cent increase in 1972 prices, joining the other three Big Four car makers in requesting increased prices.

American Motors has received approval for a 2.5 per cent boost.

Chrysler's application for approval of a 5.9 per cent increase is pending, and Ford, which first asked for a 2 per cent increase, Tuesday boosted that to 4.4 per cent and also is awaiting approval.

The GM increase is based on rising costs, the company said. It would cover cars, trucks and optional equipment. A spokesman said GM also is seeking consideration of an additional 0.5 per cent boost in prices for product improvement.

Ford's revision of its requested increase is to cover costs other than those of labor, the company said.

Toyota of Japan said it was raising for the second time in two months the suggested retail price of its passenger cars sold in the United States. The increases average 1.6 per cent, the firm said, reflecting increased valuation of the yen, higher tariff rates and higher production costs on some models. In October, Toyota announced average increases of 8.8 per cent above 1971 models.

Steel prices went up Tuesday, with the Price Commission approving a 7.6 per cent boost for Bethlehem Steel and a 7.2 per cent increase for National Steel. Both apply only to tin mill products. The commission said higher labor and material costs justified the higher prices.

As a result of the tinplate boost, Continental Can Co. said it would ask for a 7 per cent increase in can prices.

Tasty Thanksgiving Game Hens

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Holiday meals call for a certain flair. It is easy to have tasty, attractive and inexpensive menus for Thanksgiving. Most turkeys are flavorful and go a long way when there are more than 12 people for guests during this special holiday. For a smaller group of six try a very special Cornish game hen recipe which includes basting the birds with a jellied cranberry-raspberry sauce... for an extra touch these may be flamed with a dash of brandy in a chafing dish.

GAME HEN CRANBLEEE

6 game hens

- salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry-raspberry sauce, mashed
- 1/2 cup warm brandy

Sprinkle game hens with salt and pepper. Roast in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Combine butter, lemon juice, rind and cranberry-raspberry sauce. Stir over heat until bubbly. Brush some of the sauce over game hens and roast another 15 minutes. Keep remaining sauce hot to spoon over game hens. Place game hens on a platter. If desired, spoon warm brandy over hens and set aflame. Serve game hens with sauce spooned over them. Makes 6 servings.

make a delightfully different meal for a small dinner party.

Xi Beta Upsilon Has Wine Tasting Party

A Wine Fest social highlighted the Monday meeting of the Xi Beta Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held in the home of Mrs. Jack Newby, Walnut Hills.

Dick Esser presented a program on wine tasting and offered the members six wines to examine. The white wines were chablis, moselle and sauternes; the red wines were chianti, beajolais and lambrusco.

Esser said that wines offer a wide range of flavors and gave suggestions on wine tasting used by professionals. He said that wines should be examined by using three senses — sight, smell and taste. White wines should be tasted before red and when wines vary in sweetness, taste the dry wines before the sweet. Cheese on white and black bread was served along with the wine.

The wine serving table was draped with a burgundy colored tablecloth centered with bunches of orange, red, yellow and purple grapes and lighted by orange tapers in black wrought iron holders.

A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. George Nix, president, and the evening was completed by surprising Mrs. Robert Nichols with a birthday cake.

A Citizen Gives Thanks

"A Citizen Gives Thanks" was the theme of the international program presented at the Monday noon meeting of the Altrusa Club.

Chairman Mrs. Mildred Goddard introduced two members of the Whiteman AFB Citizenship Class who told of their experiences in becoming American citizens following completion of the class conducted by members of the Club.

Mrs. Robert Treuner, 1703 East Seventh, who originally is from Germany, has lived in the U.S. for eight years. She told the group that she had heard of the citizenship class being conducted at WAFB and felt that since she had not had any other opportunity to study to become a citizen herself, she'd become a part of the group. She and her son received their citizenship June 17 in Kansas City.

The other guest, Mrs. Richard Watanabe, Okinawa, told how she could not communicate with Americans since she didn't speak English after she came to America with her husband. After becoming a member of the class, she learned about the government and the language. She is also an American citizen now.

Mrs. June Brown gave the Thanksgiving devotion, and Mrs. Dorothy Riley expressed thanks to all who had a part in the 1971 citizenship program.

Mrs. Lu Real gave the Thanksgiving benediction.

Mrs. Margaret Tarwater attended the meeting as a guest and in the absence of the president, Miss Sue Heckart, vice president, conducted the meeting.

Garden Club Notes

OTTERVILLE — The Otterville Garden Club met Thursday at the home of its president, Mrs. Cecil Hite. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. O. W. Howard and Mrs. Lewis Zumsteg.

Chaplain, Miss Lucille Wear, read Psalms of Thanksgiving and offered prayer. Twelve members answered roll call with "How I Help Improve the Environment."

Miss Wear announced that the 1972 yearbooks would be distributed at the December meeting and she urged members to make Christmas ornaments or arrangements and bring to that meeting so that she and her garden therapy committee can take them to shut ins. It was voted that the planter boxes in the business district be filled with greenery and left in place through the winter.

Program chairman, Mrs. C. M. Brumback, presented Mrs. R. L. Painter who spoke on "Modern Disposal of Leaves." She discouraged burning and recommended instead leaf vacuums, compost mills and compost heaps. She told how to have a compost heap ready for use in as short a time as two weeks. Her closing thought was "Make use of your leaves this fall and your garden will thank you for it next spring."

Mrs. J. H. Parsons gave tips on how to attract birds and stressed that now is the time to put up feeders.

Christmas wreaths for the birds were made by Mrs. A. Y. Burford, Mrs. W. L. Burford, and Mrs. Wm. Dunham. All received blue ribbons. All entries in the arrangement class, "Kitchen Klatter," received blue ribbons. Winners were Mrs. A. Y. Burford, Mrs. W. L. Burford, Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Hite and Mrs. Painter.

Liberated Leg Still Super Star

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The liberated leg is holding superstar status in the fall and holiday parade.

"Newest options for stepping up the eye-catching impact of leg fashions include arresting colors like hot red, gauchito green, red onion and wineberry," said Betty Curry, fashion director of a leading textile house. "Panty hose with colors that are contrasting to those in the costume and shoes looks newest."

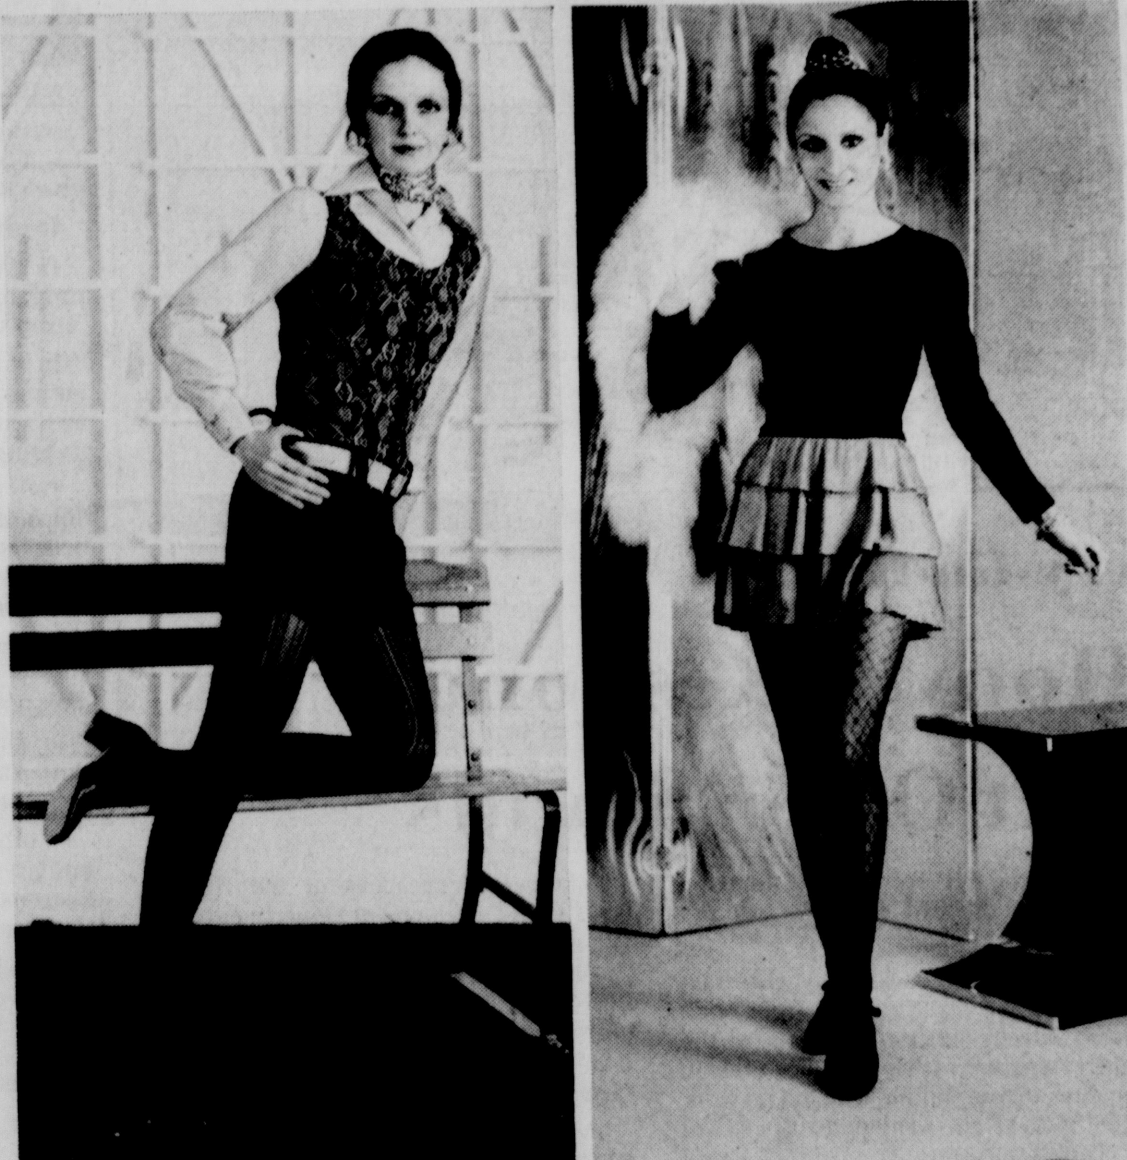

Potent new scene stealers are the Come-Ons, a series of elegant patterned panty hose that extend the design right up to the waist band to insure a flattering view no matter how liberated legs may be. These versatile styles are effective worn with the high slit ankle-length costumes, the classic swirls of pleats or ruffles at knee level or with warm pants, warm skirts, culottes and shorter cuts.

Financing Honesty By Our Dollars

WASHINGTON — American politicians need money. Dollars. Cash. Desperately.

That is a grim fact of life in a society where the cost of winning high public office has soared so high as to be absurd.

And that has a lot to do with the recent profusion of headlines about congressmen, senators, their aides being involved in bribe attempts, influence peddling, conspiracy, perjury — not to mention the gross violations of ethics for which they are never indicted.

Fred Harris, the Oklahoma Democrat, had a pathetically brief campaign for the presidential nomination. After eight weeks he was $40,000 in debt even though he had managed to spend a quarter-million dollars — before anyone anywhere got to cast a single vote for or against him. He quit.

Sen. Ed Muskie, as yet an unannounced candidate, is shelling out some $40,000 a month just for the plane that hauls him around the country. Should he lose the New Hampshire primary, he almost certainly would be unable to raise the funds needed to keep him a viable candidate in other contests. He probably would have to quit.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's 1968 campaign hasn't even been paid for yet, with the Democratic party still millions in debt. Organized labor will want to slap him in irons before ponying up money to help him finance a fight for renomination.

Washington is today full of conniving men who feel they have bought, or can soon buy, beneficial actions by the current administration because of large gifts to the Republican party.

Americans finally are face-to-face with a decision as to whether we will continue to watch passively as the political system gallops berserk into a disgrace, an outrage, where reasonably honest men are pressured to sell their souls to the devil.

Richard Nixon and his little dog Checkers averted tragedy in 1952 when he was challenged about his money supply. The late Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut was run out of the Senate and perhaps to his grave by allegations that he turned campaign contributions to his personal use.

The situations seem to worsen by the month. Last week we had the spectacle of the deputy attorney general of the United States, Richard G. Kleindienst, testifying in New York that the suspended aide to Sen. Hiram Fong (R.-Hawaii) offered him a $100,000 "campaign contribution" if he would help to quash an impending indictment. The aide, Robert T. Carson, is being tried on charges of conspiracy, bribery and perjury relating to an alleged attempt to fix criminal securities indictments.

Kleindienst testified that he did not consider the offer a bribe at first and that he only reported the offer a week later when he learned that the FBI was about to bug Carson's office.

This development occurs simultaneously with lurid testimony in Baltimore that Rep. John Dowdy (D.-Texas) accepted a $25,000 bribe at the Atlanta airport in 1965.

Some of the bribery and thievery is attributable to sheer greed and basic crookedness on the part of a few politicians, but much of the unethical conduct undoubtedly flows out of the money pressures generated by exorbitant campaign expenses.

Under the circumstances, ordinary citizens are helpless in the face of wheel-dealers well supplied with money as well as gall.

What do we do to re-create a situation where democracy has a chance? We simply have to place some limits on what can be spent in a given campaign, and insist that the limits not be violated through the hanky-panky of dozens of phony committees, as is now the case.

And we must accept a system under which ordinary Americans give a little so there will be no need for selfish interests to give a lot.

Senate Democrats have come up with the controversial proposal to use tax funds to finance Presidential campaigns. Under this proposal each citizen could check his income tax form agreeing that one dollar of his payment is to go into a special fund for the Presidential campaign.

About $20 million each would go to the Democratic and Republican candidates, with lesser amounts going to third and fourth parties (just over $6 million to George Wallace).

Now I confess to a livid lack of enthusiasm for fattening the campaign coffers of Wallace with my taxes, but I am finally convinced that that is a lesser evil than the present situation where shrewd crooks and "respectable" selfish interests threaten to buy up the country.

The partisan implications of this proposal are obvious. Republicans are in power and are literally besieged by wealthy people and interests wanting to give them money, so to the last man in the Senate they tried to defeat the proposal. Democrats are agonizing under the gaping GOP financial advantage, so some of them will favor the tax check-off as a measure that gives their party a more equal run at the White House. The lines will be just as partisan in the House, and even if both Houses should approve the tax check-off, the unhappy likelihood is that President Nixon would veto it.

But the issue of campaign financing transcends partisan politics. At stake is the very soul of a nation in which proliferating political corruption has become the cancerous enemy within.

For all its disadvantages, the time has come when we must have well-controlled federal financing of presidential campaigns — with a view toward extending the system and strict spending limitations to House and Senate races.

Without it, democracy and good government may never again stand a chance in this society.

Drug Abuse Is Laid At Society's Feet

The official report of the White House Conference on Youth, held last April in Estes Park, Colo., is now available. There appears to be a plentiful supply of material to keep editorial writers, sociologists and commentators busy for weeks to come.

The chapter on drugs is especially interesting, not because of what it says — which was predictable — but because of its reasoning. It is also deeply disturbing.

One searches in vain through the White House report for one inkling that drug abuse might somehow be related to personal responsibility. On the contrary, our addicted kids are merely the victims of our society, and its many ills.

The clear implication is that unless we immediately end the Vietnam war, eliminate racism and pollution of our environment and somehow resolve the urban crisis, and other "root causes" of drug abuse, we are in for more of the same.

And it will be OUR fault.

The minority caucus report is somewhat more concise, calling the "real" drug inducing issues "white racism, urbanization and greed."

Short of achieving a Utopian society on earth, in which all problems will be eliminated, America's youth will continue to use drugs, and will be perfectly justified in doing so, the report says in so many words.

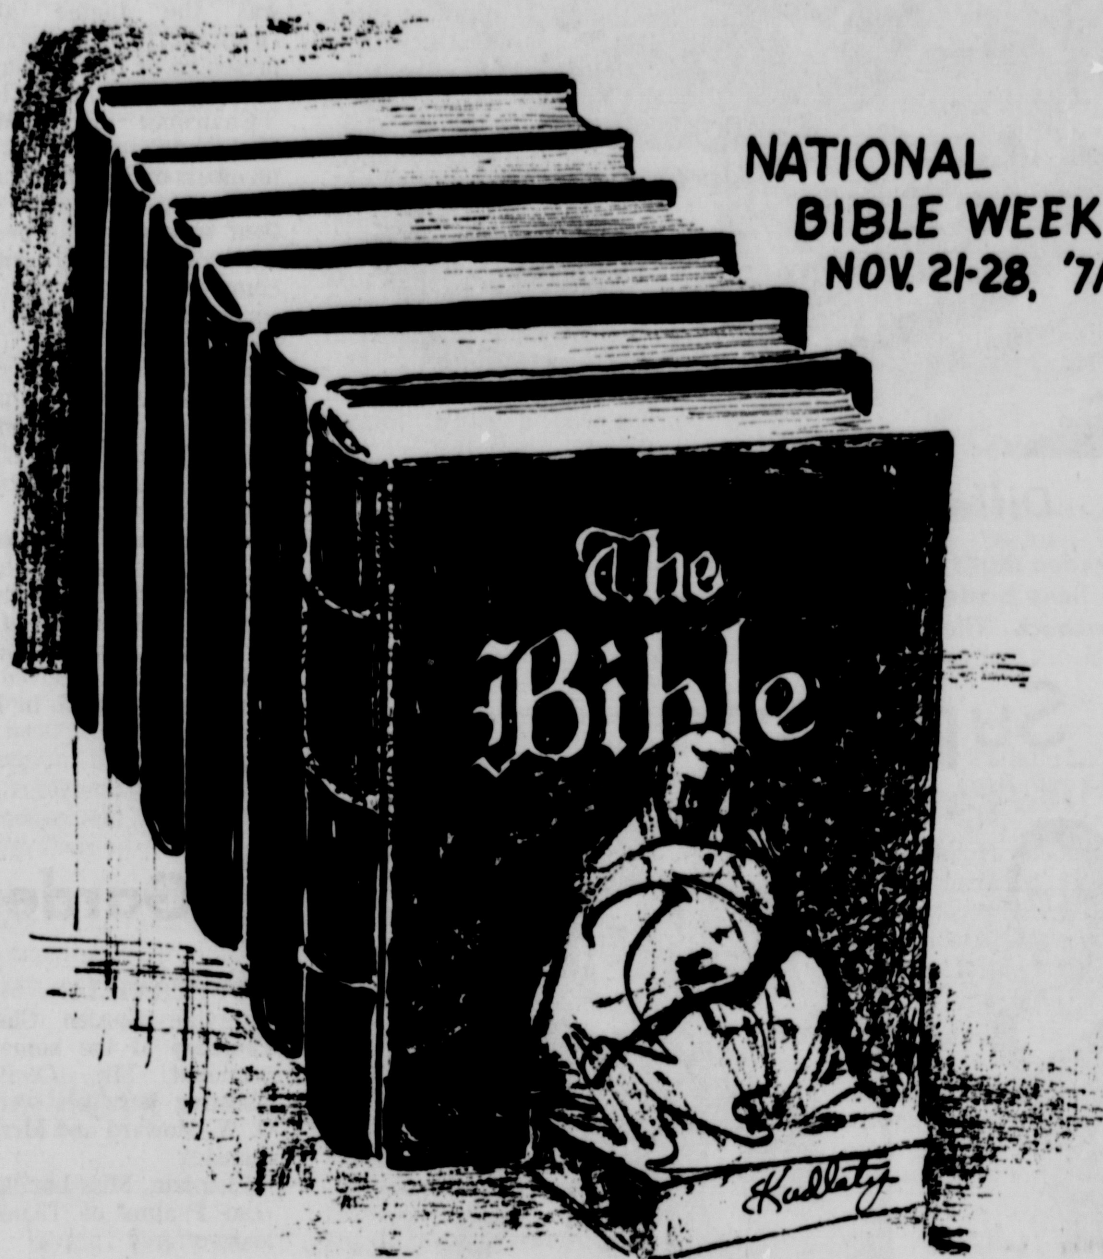

Balderdash!

To say that society's problems justify the creation of a drug culture in this nation is the ultimate cop-out. It is the philosophy of despair, and carried to the extreme could paralyze the will of this nation.

Reading the report on the White House Conference on Youth makes one wonder whether the 918 delegates who assembled to write this document were truly as "representative" as national chairman Stephen Hess says they were.

One shudders to think so.

Merry-Go-Round

Hoover Responds, But Offer Stands

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The old FBI bulldog, J. Edgar Hoover, has taken another bite out of us. He spoke at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts where former FBI agents gathered amid the marble and majesty for an evening of culture.

In his familiar growl, Hoover rumbled: "One of my more virulent critics — his name escapes me for the moment — has apparently fallen off his merry-go-round once too often."

"Last spring, he spent considerable time sifting through my garbage. My only reason for mentioning it is that I understand he is becoming increasingly confused between the trash he examines and the trash he writes."

"The publication of drivel," he added, "while admittedly a right, is not the best way of discharging the precious responsibilities of a free press. Criticism, to be valid, must be based on knowledge and a desire to correct deficiencies."

We have been trying to correct a few deficiencies at the FBI for some time, and we have done our best to obtain the necessary knowledge. But Hoover, unhappily, won't let anyone at the FBI discuss its deficiencies.

The old curmudgeon also tolerates absolutely no criticism of himself. Indeed, he takes extreme measures to keep this kind of knowledge from the public.

We learned, for example, that Hoover has collected more than $250,000 in royalties from three books researched and ghostwritten for him by FBI personnel on government time. He refused to discuss this with us. The FBI's publicity people, who love to tell about FBI heroics, also suddenly developed lockjaw.

We asked the Justice Department, which is supposed to have jurisdiction over the FBI, how the royalties were divided. We even threatened to file a lawsuit under the Freedom of Information Act to get the facts.

Unable to get an official response from anyone, we published all we knew about the $250,000 Hoover had collected for other people's work. Most of the money, we reported, had been earned by Hoover's best seller, "Masters of Deceit." We also learned that Warner Brothers had paid Hoover some $50,000 for the movie rights to the book.

Subsequently, the FBI leaked a report to National Review publisher William Rusher that Hoover had split "Masters of Deceit" royalties five ways: one-fifth to Hoover, one-fifth to the FBI recreational fund and three-fifths to the FBI employees who did the work.

We have tried for weeks to get the exact breakdown. We have now learned that Hoover, indeed, pocketed one-fifth of the royalties. Another fifth went to his lifelong companion, Clyde Tolson, who did no work on the book at all. Another fifth went to Lou Nichols, a former FBI factotum, who helped to arrange for the publication. The FBI recreational fund also got a fifth. The final portion went to a middleman, whose name we have been given but have been unable to verify.

By taking money for work done by FBI personnel on government time, Hoover has committed an offense that would bring an FBI investigation of any other government official.

As Hoover himself put it in his speech at the Kennedy Center: "No man has the inherent right to place himself above and beyond the law."

Footnote: The last time Hoover ripped into us, we offered to back up our stories before an appropriate congressional committee. We invited him to tell his side, and we would lay out the evidence supporting our stories. The loser, we suggested, should agree in advance to retire. The logical committee to hold these hearings would be the House Freedom of Information Subcommittee. Chairman William Moorhead, D-Pa., has offered to go ahead with them provided that Hoover will join us in requesting hearings. It's now up to the FBI chief.

The federal official in charge of regulating land sales has wangled a job with one of the big land developers he was supposed to regulate.

He is Alfred Lehtonen, a 41-year-old attorney who headed the Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration. This was established in 1969 to prevent land companies from hornswoggling their customers.

Lehtonen is now signed on with Horizon Corporation, an enterprising firm which ran up its land sales from $36 million to $58 million while he was in charge of regulation.

Before Lehtonen resigned as land sales administrator, he flew to Horizon's headquarters in Tucson as the company's guest to discuss the job offer. He accepted a vice presidency with the company and resigned from the government at about the same time.

Lehtonen's colleagues at the Housing and Urban Development Department were taken by such surprise that their magazine Challenge featured an article lauding Lehtonen's regulatory work even as he informed them of his plans to join the regulated.

HUD directives say that an employee "must remove himself from any matter in which a business...with which he is connected or seeking employment has a financial interest." The regulations also declare that an employee must not "solicit, negotiate or arrange for private employment" while "acting on behalf of HUD in a matter in which your prospective employer has a financial interest."

Lehtonen told us he had announced his resignation from the government before he formally joined Horizon, thereby complying with HUD regulations. From Tucson, his new boss, Horizon vice president Russell Wilde, commented: "You have a very normal case of a capable executive being seduced out of government."

U.S. Aid Overhaul Necessary

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If the current squabbling and confusion over foreign aid eventually results in a top-to-bottom overhaul of the entire concept and establishment of future assistance efforts on a rationally productive basis, it will indeed be a blessing.

Cromley

Something of this nature has been long overdue in the opinion of this writer after two decades of reporting on the subject, a view shared by many within the aid program itself, both young Turks and veterans of the original Marshall Plan. Nowhere, in fact, is criticism stronger of what the program has become than among men who have given 10 to 15 years of their lives to it.

In private, of course.

In its present form, the U.S. assistance program does not conform with President Nixon's foreign policy.

It does not mesh with the purposes outlined by President Kennedy 10 years ago when the program was reorganized in its present form.

Too frequently, aid has consisted of doing for foreign countries those things we believed should be done in the ways we thought they should be carried out, brushing local views aside.

Because of a difference in customs or lack of local expertise, the results often have not done what we intended.

In some cases our aid triggered radical shifts in the economies and disrupted the social order.

In other cases, overemphasis was put on military aid when greater economic assistance might have increased stability and lessened the military need.

Training of foreign peoples has been woefully inadequate in fostering the technical skills required to use the equipment we have provided, particularly in maintenance.

There has been too much reliance on figures — on dams built, irrigation projects started, tons of fertilizer spread, miles of road constructed, wells dug, power generated or schools completed.

Americans can give of their technical knowledge. They can train men and women in needed skills. They can bring foreign specialists here. But Americans cannot plan successfully the economic program of distant Asian, Latin or African nations without courting chaos.

Nixon has said he wants local nations to plan their own defenses and provide the bulk of their own security. The United States, at invitation, will provide the technical backup.

Congressional furor over the aid bill should give the administration an opportunity to develop precisely this type of program, if the will is strong enough.

Slain Deer An Offense

First let me clarify my feelings inasmuch as I do, I have and I shall continue to enjoy reading The Sedalia Democrat. But every year during the deer season my sensibilities are offended by the pictures of the people displaying their hunting skills by standing beside the once beautiful and graceful animal which they have slain so heroically.

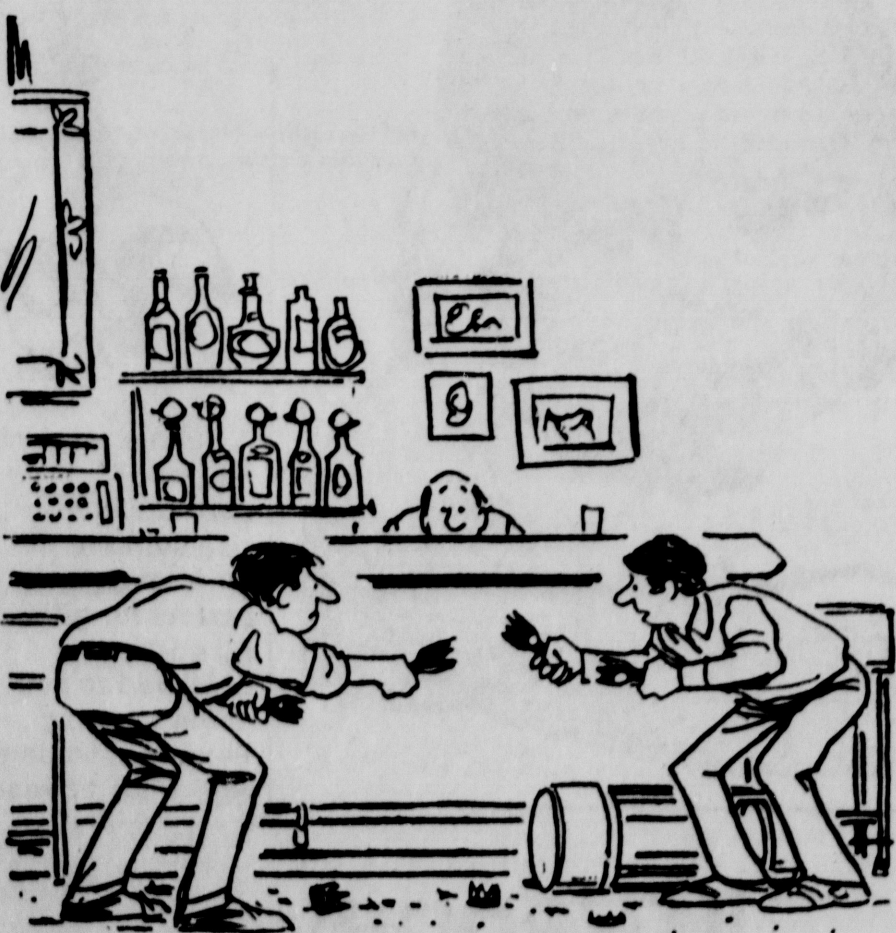

I could readily understand if this was done under duress, such as the animal attacking man — charging him without provocation — or a starving family waiting at home for food.

The explanation of course is always that it is necessary because they would overproduce and therefore be a hazard to us; and I will agree to this possibility. Since we are entering our season of thankfulness, perhaps we as humans should all bow our heads and give thanks that no similar rules govern us for overproducing and endangering our environment.

The expert and the beginner both use a standard no-trump with 4-3-3, 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution and a 16-18 range in high cards. Some experts prefer a 15-17 point range and they all cheat a little so that any one of them will treat 15 points plus three or four 10 spots as a 16-point hand. They do use the no-trump as a precise picture bid and they also use very powerful methods of slam bidding in response to a no-trump opening.

One expert weapon is well within the reach of any player. It is the Gerber convention. The simplest way to use this convention is to provide that after a no-trump opening a jump to four no-trump is a strong raise in no-trump while a jump to four clubs is an artificial bid that asks for aces.

The basic replies to a Gerber four clubs are four diamonds to show no aces or all four aces; four hearts to show one ace; four spades to show two aces and four no-trump to show three.

If a Gerber bidder wants to ask for kings he follows up with five clubs; a four no-trump follow-up asks to stop right there.

Today's hand shows Gerber in operation. North wants to play in seven if

Chiefs Face Tough Test With Lions

KANSAS CITY — Hank Stram's Kansas City Chiefs, fresh from their 28-10 victory over the Denver Broncos, have little time to prepare for their Thanksgiving Day battle with the Detroit Lions at Detroit's Tiger Stadium. Kickoff is slated for 11 a.m.

The Chiefs and Lions will be meeting for the first time in regular season play. The Chiefs were victorious in their two pre-season contests against the Lions, 38-13 in 1969 and 30-17 last year.

The Lions are a game and a half behind the Minnesota Vikings in the National Football Conference's Central Division race with a 6-3-1 record. Their record is identical to that of the Washington Redskins in the battle for the fourth spot in the playoffs. Both the Lions and Redskins have a half game edge over the San Francisco 49'ers in the qualifying race.

The Chiefs' victory over Denver pushed their season mark to 7-2-1, a half game behind the Oakland Raiders in the AFC's Western Division race. The Chiefs' victory, coupled with Baltimore's loss to Miami, gives Stram's team a half game edge on the Colts for the runner-up spot in the AFC's playoff derby.

The Lions defense was the key factor in their victory over Chicago, harassing Bears quarterback Bobby Douglas throughout the game. The Lions got to Douglas eight times for 62 yards in losses and intercepted four passes.

However, it will be the Chiefs defense which will be put to test at stopping the Detroit's offensive machinery. Led by quarterback Greg Landry, the Lions' offense boasts one of the more potent scoring attacks in football. The Lions have scored 252 points, one point shy of the Dallas Cowboys, who lead the NFC.

Runningbacks Steve Owens, Mel Farr and Albie Taylor are a combination of speed and power. In Larry Walton, Earl McCullough and tight end Charlie Sanders, Detroit has a great trio of receivers. Sanders, in fact, is rated as the best tight end in the game.

The Chiefs, meanwhile, put their offense in gear against the aggressive Denver Broncos. Quarterback Len Dawson, receiving great protection from his offensive line, passed for 294 yards on 11 of 19 completions, good for three touchdowns.

Dawson's performance pushed the 15 year pro past his effort in 1970 when he hit on 141 of 262 attempts for 1829 yards and 13 TD's. To date, Dawson has completed 120 of 220 for 1903 yards and 13 TD's. He needs 206 yards to surpass his 1968 total of 2109 yards.

Dawson has gotten balanced receiving from Otis Taylor, Elmo Wright, Ed Podolak and Morris Stroud. In the last two games, Stroud, Taylor and Podolak have added six catches each to their season totals, while Wright has come up with five grabs in the same time span. Taylor leads the group with 38 receptions for 833 yards, followed by Wright, 20 for 415, Podolak, 20 for 231, and Stroud, 17 for 335.

"The Detroit Lions have all the tools," says Stram. "They are a very physical team with great offensive balance between their rushing and passing attack. Defensively, they played an outstanding game against the Bears, which typifies their aggressive style of play. It should be an outstanding game."

OU Places Offense Against NU Defense

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Can the nation's No. 1 college football defense stop the No. 1 offense?

This appeared to be the big question today as top-ranked Nebraska and second-ranked Oklahoma wound up preparations for Thursday's nationally televised game of the year. The kickoff is set for 2:50 p.m. EST.

Nebraska has yielded only 171 yards a game. Oklahoma's blistering wishbone offense has averaged 563 yards a game.

To the question, quarterback Jack Mildren, the trigger man in Oklahoma's offense, flatly said, "No." Sooner halfback Greg Pruitt, who has averaged 9.5 yards a play, said, "We'll win."

Both are impressed with the Black Shirts, Nebraska's defensive unit, but insisted Oklahoma can move the ball against the Cornhuskers.

"They're better on defense than any team we've played," said Mildren, generally regarded as the best triple option quarterback in the country. "However, we don't think anybody can stop us."

Pruitt, whose rocket running has netted 1,423 yards, said bluntly:

"I am confident we will beat them because I have confidence in our team and myself. I think we proved we played our best under pressure... back there when we beat Southern California, Texas and Colorado in a row. I don't think Nebraska has played a pressure game this year."

Coach Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma, 9-0, doesn't go along with the theory that Nebraska, unbeaten in 29 straight games and 10-0 this season, is better on defense than on offense.

"Nebraska is as fine a college football team as I've ever seen," Fairbanks said. "They are a complete football team. They do so well in all phases of the game."

"Nebraska is not the type of team that beats itself. To win, we have to play better than we have all year long. We have to play a complete game. We're not going to win it on offense or on defense alone."

Fairbanks said he doesn't think Nebraska Coach Bob

Devaney will make major adjustments on defense.

"Of course," Fairbanks said, "there will be adjustments. Nebraska probably will make some adjustment in their secondary for us. I don't expect any big change. They have the nation's best defense as it is."

Larry Lacwell, the Sooners' defensive coach, admitted Oklahoma doesn't have the depth on defense some other teams have.

"Depth in our defense has been a problem all season," he said, then sighed and added: "The only good thing that has happened to me this year is I didn't have to defend the Oklahoma offense."

Devaney has said that the theory the Sooners are strictly offense-oriented and do not have a good defense is a lot of hogwash.

"Oklahoma's defense is vastly underrated," Devaney said. "You've just heard more about their offense."

Fairbanks sidestepped a question about the game's outcome. Instead of answering the question, he said:

"I hope the game is not decided by some fluke. I want Oklahoma at full strength and Nebraska at full strength. I hope it's decided by whoever has the best players on the field."

Devaney hasn't made any predictions, either, but has let it be known that "we're going to do everything possible to remain No. 1."

Devaney did indicate he thought the game between these two high-scoring teams could be a close one.

"In a game between two high scoring teams," he said, "you normally don't think of a field goal being a factor but it sure could be."

Oklahoma is expected to attack mostly on the ground. The Sooners have averaged 481.4 yards a game and only 81.8 yards passing.

However, Mildren has completed 48 per cent of his passes for 646 yards and seven touchdowns.

Northwest held only a 20-18 lead at the close of the first period, but were ahead, 39-27, as the teams left the floor at the half.

Says Cardinals Are Own Worst Enemies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals Coach Bob Hollway described his National Football League team Tuesday as its "own worst enemies" in slipping to 3-7 from a record of 7-2-1 at this point in 1970.

"We are 3-7," he told members of the quarterback club, "... but our passing percentages are better, just as one example ... We have allowed fewer touchdown passes than the team did a year ago."

Hollway, who took over as Cards' head coach following a four-season stint as defensive coach of the Minnesota Vikings, said he will stand by the system that put the Vikings on top.

"We're here to win," he told club members but added, "I'm not sure when that time will be."

Wildcats Drop First of Year

WARSAW — And now there are none. Warsaw went into Tuesday night's game with School of the Osage as the only undefeated team in the Kaysinger Conference — and now there are none.

Despite the 33-point performance of all-conference junior forward Eddie Barnes, the Wildcats had to settle for an 86-74 setback as 6'6" junior center Doug Stevens watched from the sidelines, unable to play.

Osage was playing their opening game of the season.

"We were a long way back after the first quarter was over," said Wildcats' coach Galen Davis as he pondered over the statistics. The Indians built up a 20-7 lead as the teams entered the second period of play.

The absence of Stevens gave Osage the advantage they needed on the boards in the opening half as the Indians carried a 39-26 lead into the dressing room at the intermission.

Both teams used a zone, but the defense took a backseat to the offense in the third period as Osage added three points to their lead in outscoring Warsaw, 35-32 in the third stanza.

Warsaw held an edge in the scoring only in one period, that being their final one when they outshot the Indians, 16-12.

It was the first loss of the season for Warsaw, who now owns a 5-1 mark in overall play. The Wildcats are tied with Stover and Sacred Heart with a 2-0 record in the race in the Kaysinger Conference race.

Barnes was the leading scorer in the game with his 33 tallies, but the lack of balanced scoring took its toll.

Guard Steve Barb was the only other Warsaw player to reach double figures with 16.

Warsaw captured the junior varsity contest, 47-25, behind the 14-point performance of Glen Spencer.

Hint Taft-Hartley Act Move in Docks Tie-up

By KEN GEPFERT
Associated Press Writer

A federal mediator says President Nixon may invoke the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to get East Coast longshoremen back to work following a breakdown in negotiations aimed at ending the 55-day-old dock strike.

Chief federal mediator J. Curtis Counts said Tuesday after unsuccessful meetings with labor and management representatives at Miami Beach, Fla., that he considered Taft-Hartley action by the President "a real possibility."

Nixon invoked the act last month during a strike by West Coast dockworkers.

Thomas Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said dockworkers would obey a back-to-work order if it were imposed under a cooling-off period.

Union officials have estimated some 45,000 ILA members and an additional 30,000 members of related unions are affected by the walkout, which stems from lack of a new contract.

ILA Vice President Anthony Scotto said he did not consider an agreement possible without Taft-Hartley.

"No matter how long we met, it wouldn't have made any difference," Gleason added.

James Dickman, president of the Council of North Atlantic Shipping Association, said industry representatives will remain in Miami Beach today to decide whether to ask Nixon to impose a cooling off period of up to 90 days.

In October, when negotiations failed to settle the then three-month-old West Coast dock strike, Nixon ordered the dockworkers back to work. The North Atlantic strike was six days old at the time and the President decided not to use emergency powers to halt it.

Instead, he sent federal officials to New York to try and reach a settlement through negotiation. The negotiations were moved to Miami Beach last week.

During the last days of the negotiations, both sides indicated that a settlement was near. Cost provisions were reported as the major stumbling block in negotiations.

The shippers reportedly offered a $1.20 hourly wage increase and fringe benefits with 76.5 cents an hour over a three-year period. The ILA was said to be demanding a flat $2.90 hike.

Base pay for ILA members now is $4.60 an hour.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The British and Rhodesian governments agreed today on terms for the African territory to return to the Commonwealth and end the six-year-old rebellion to preserve white minority rule.

Terms of the agreement will not be made public until they are announced to the Rhodesian and British parliaments Thursday afternoon, a joint announcement said. But there was speculation that they provide for continuation of white control and advancement of the black majority toward political power some day.

The agreement was signed this morning by Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British Foreign Secretary, and Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia after nine days of talks. After a session Tuesday night, informants reported little remained to be discussed except formalities.

The announcement said the terms will be submitted to the Rhodesian people in a "test of acceptability" that would be organized as soon as possible.

Douglas-Home and Prime Minister Ian Smith have met eight times since the talks began Nov. 15. However, it appears that much spadework was accomplished by Lord Goodman in five previous visits to Salisbury this year. Goodman left Tuesday for London, and his departure was viewed as the conclusive sign that agreement had been reached in the six-year-old dispute.

Whatever the compromise, a storm of protest is expected from black nationalists because it has become clear during the negotiations that immediate majority rule will not be achieved.

Observers speculated that the agreement would leave the white minority in control of the government while offering advancement to the black majority. With Britain underwriting the costs. A promise of majority government some time in the future was expected.

Columbia Fire Is Damaging

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fire caused extensive damage early today to the Daniel Boone Hotel in downtown Columbia.

Officials said only a few minor cuts and bruises were reported as all of the guests in the five-story brick structure at Seventh Street and Broadway escaped safely.

Among the guests was a party of 17, coaches and players, from Coffeyville, Kan., Junior College. They were on their way to a holiday basketball tournament at Burlington, Iowa, and stopped in Columbia Tuesday to work out at the University of Missouri's Brewer Fieldhouse.

Coach John Criss said "someone came down my hall (on the 5th floor) and knocked on the door until I awakened. When I looked out the hall was filled with smoke."

"Ten of my boys were staying in rooms on the floor," Criss said, "and I beat on their doors till we got all of them out."

Criss said two of his boys on the fourth floor jumped about 15 or 20 feet to the roof of the hotel restaurant. He said they were not hurt and did not identify them.

The fire broke out around 2 a.m. and firemen battled the blaze in a light snow and temperatures that hovered around the freezing mark. The fire was out and clean up operations began shortly after 4 a.m.

Fire Chief Max Woods said there was extensive heat and smoke damage on the top two floors with smoke and water damage to some extent on the third floor and smoke damage elsewhere.

Jim Nanson, manager and part owner of the hotel, said most of the guests had been relocated in other facilities or on the lower floors early today. A few moved to other hotels or motels.

The hotel's restaurant and banquet area facilities escaped damage.

There was no estimate of the loss and Woods said the cause was not immediately determined.

Coach Criss and his basketball team moved to a motel and planned to resume their trip to Burlington later today.

School Bus Accidents Injure 44

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two school bus accidents in Missouri Tuesday resulted in injuries, none serious, to 44 students.

A bus was hit broadside at a railroad crossing in Lilbourn, Mo., in the southeast part of the state, injuring 36 students ranging in age from 7 to 18.

Earlier in the day, an East Newton school bus overturned on a curve north of Stella, Mo., injuring eight.

At Lilbourn, the bus carrying 60 students was hit by a Cotton Belt railroad freight. The injured were rushed by cars and ambulances from the town of 1,200 to a Sikeston hospital, 25 miles north of the scene. Nine were admitted for treatment.

The driver of the bus, William Sherrill, 61, of Lilbourn, suffered cuts to the face and leg. He was cited by the Missouri Highway Patrol for failure to yield at a railroad crossing. The patrol said the train was a local, and moving at a reduced speed, thus averting a possible tragedy.

Witnesses say the bus stopped at the crossing, opened the door as required by law, then proceeded across the tracks. It was knocked into a nearby ditch, but did not overturn.

Three of the children in the Stella crash were admitted to a hospital there. The highway patrol said the bus, operated by Ellis Pogue, failed to make a curve when one wheel ran off the pavement.
